A Generous Soul

Then there was the case of the old gold prospector who directed that his estate now worth $297,000 be used to prove the existence of the human soul.

In his will, James Kidd said of the bequest: "I think there can be a photograph of a soul leaving the human after death." That sounds like a tough assignment for any photographer. But there was no shortage of applicants for the money—about 140 of them.

A judge has now awarded the money to the American Society for Physical Research, Inc. of New York. If the society ever gets that picture we'll be the first in line to print it. — Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

Expensive Recruits

The Army professes satisfaction with its $10 million television advertising campaign for recruits. With only 4,100 recruits claimed for the commercial venture, it figures out at $2,583 each for the new man. That is a healthy price to have to pay.

There is substantial doubt that the controversial recruitment drive has done even that well. The Army counts all recruits enlisted from March 1, when the campaign began, and June 30, a month after it ended.

The assumption that 4,100 men enlisted because of the television commercials is stretching it pretty far. Many people have sundry reasons for joining the Army, and tv commercials have little to do with it.

The Army insists volunteer enlistments are 4,100 higher than they would have been without the $10 million expenditure. We doubt it. We think it was a wasteful expenditure—a gratuitous gesture of questionable worth. — Tulsa (Okla.) World

House Calls by Doctors Are Rare

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A patient with a high fever is more likely to be visited at his home by his doctor if he lives in a small Midwestern town than if he lives in the South or a big city.

And he's more likely to receive a house call if his physician is over 35.

These were among results of a survey of American physicians conducted by the biweekly magazine Modern Medicine, published in Minneapolis.

The magazine received 25,538 replies in a poll of its readers and found 64 per cent of the respondents willing to go to patients' homes.

The magazine said making house calls "is clearly shown to be a diminishing practice—especially in larger cities."

Of those who make house calls, more than half make at least five a month, 35 per cent make 10 or more and 13 per cent average 25 or more.

Of the 9,100 physicians who said they do not make house calls, 78 per cent make arrangements to see patients in hospital emergency rooms.

Sixty-nine per cent of those who make house calls said they make fewer such calls now than five years ago, and 78 per cent charge more now than then.

Just over half of the responding doctors oppose using paramedical personnel, such as nurses, to make house calls, but younger physicians were more in favor than older ones.

Seven out of 10 doctors over age 50 said they make house calls, while 63 per cent of those 35 to 49 do, and 50 per cent of those under 35.

Proportionately more doctors in rural areas and towns under 5,000 population—93 per cent said they make house calls than in larger population centers.

Physicians in the larger areas showed a marked preference for seeing patients in a hospital emergency room.

LEGACY OF FRENCH DOMINION, long loaves of fresh-baked bread are heaped in Saigon's open-air market. But not much else remains of the Gallic past in the city once known as the Paris of the Orient, under the double impact of war and the heavy American presence of the last decade. Strictly Vietnamese—or Asian—is the line of fish vendors, left. Fish far exceeds meat as the main protein source for Vietnamese.

A Year of Frustration for Reagan

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

For Gov. Ronald Reagan, 1971 has been a year of trial, frustration and diminished public image—perhaps the pivotal point in his tenure as California's chief executive.

"We have been 4½ years coming to this moment," the 60-year-old Republican said this summer after wielding his item veto power to slash $504 million from the legislature's version of the new state budget.

Reagan took office in January 1967 as a "citizen-politician" pledging to "squeeze and cut and trim" the cost of state government.

Backed by a million vote-mandate, the former Hollywood actor declared war on what he called the runaway spending of welfare and the bureaucratic fat of government.

Today, the lines are deeper in Reagan's tanned face. A few gray hairs are visible around the edges of his dark, conservatively trimmed hair. Some of his 71 problems:

—His chief legislative goals were stalled or killed outright in the Democratic-controlled legislature, forcing him to launch personal head-to-head negotiations with Democratic lawmakers in an effort to achieve a compromise on welfare reform.

—He was troubled by controversy over his disclosure that, because of "business reverses," he did not have to pay any state income taxes in 1971 for income earned in 1970.

—Differences between Reagan and the Nixon administration over welfare programs and legal aid to the poor led a fellow Republican chief executive, Tom McCall of Oregon, to question Reagan's loyalty to Nixon.

Grand Marshall in Parade

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. is replacing former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali as grand marshal of the Watts Summer Festival parade.

A prior boxing exhibition commitment forced Ali, grand marshal in 1967, to withdraw, officials said Wednesday.

The 400 persons who attended the festival's opening ceremonies at Will Rogers Park in the predominantly black area received the news of Davis' selection with enthusiasm, officials said.

The festival and parade Sunday commemorate the 1965 Watts riots.

Med Center Can't Solve Problems

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The chief administrator of the University of Arkansas Medical Center at Little Rock says the facility can not solve all its financial problems without help.

"We would like to solve our problems," said Dr. James L. Dennis. "We're trying, and if we have enough time we will solve some of them. We'll have to curtail some of what we've been doing. But we need just a little help."

Dennis told the Little Rock Kiwanis Club that the Medical Center could not "go very long continuing with what we're doing" because its appropriation from the legislature was not sufficient.

He said, however, that he was not blaming the General Assembly. He said that based on the availability of state funds and the financial information given the General Assembly concerning the Medical Center, the legislature was as fair to the facility as it was to any other state institution.

Los Angeles County Loses Population

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

Boom Town, U.S.A., the sprawling megalopolis covering Los Angeles County, has lost population for the first time in modern history, a state report says.

The net drop during the 12 months ended June 30 was 9,600. The county now has an estimated 7,024,600, still the most of any in the nation.

Millions have migrated to Los Angeles County—nearly a million in the 1960s alone—because of the lure of jobs, the sunshine and warm climate, the orange groves and easy poolside living.

Now, many are leaving daily because of the smog, overcrowding, jammed freeways, urban blight, crime and the depression in the aerospace industry, a principal employer in Southern California.

The county has had a net out-migration before, said Walter Hollmann, director of the Population Research Office in Gov. Ronald Reagan's state Finance Department.

But this was the first time it topped the natural population increase and produced a net decline in population.

Hollmann estimated Tuesday that 90,000 persons left Los Angeles County during 1970-71 in net out-migration compared with an average yearly migration increase of 59,300 during the years 1960 to 1965.

The first outflow was in 1965-66, after the Watts riots, Hollmann said.

Los Angeles County has more than 75 cities and towns—20 of them with populations exceeding 50,000. Los Angeles itself, has 2.8 million people.

Hollmann's figures were disputed by Robert Marr, director for population research of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission, who estimated an increase of 35,000 residents for the year ended last Dec. 31.

Marr said the difference between the county and state figures are in how the experts interpret basic population indicators such as school enrollment, Social Security records, electric service connections and building activity.

AP&L Wants Rehearing on Gas Contract

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Power & Light Co. and Olinkraft, Inc. asked the state Public Service Commission Thursday to set aside the commission's order last week that voided Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.'s long-term industrial contracts and to rehear the case.

Both AP&L and Olinkraft contended the PSC did not have the authority to withdraw approval of the contracts. Seven other firms filed similar petitions for a rehearing Tuesday.

A petition for a rehearing is a procedural step that is necessary before the companies can appeal the commission's order to the courts.

Found Guilty of Assault

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A Circuit Court jury Thursday night found Eddie Rush, 21, of Fayetteville guilty of assault with intent to kill in connection with the stabbing of a 24-year-old University of Arkansas coed in her apartment last May 26.

Rush was accused of stabbing Andrea Jones several times. She was seriously injured but recovered from the wounds.

The jury recommended a sentence of 21 years in prison.

Value of the Dollar Is Just a Guess

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

Any one expecting a quick answer to what a dollar is worth after President Nixon suspended its free convertibility to gold still has some waiting to do.

European money markets have been closed all week, cutting off that arena for setting the dollar's worth.

In Japan, the national bank has bought up surplus dollars to keep the value of its yen in the same relation to the dollar as it was before Nixon's new economic policy announcements Sunday.

The citizen-level money markets, such as used by tourists, have functioned only in a helter-skelter way that gives no real indication how currency values will emerge—and may in fact be understating the dollar's value as foreign merchants and businessmen try to avoid being burned by devaluation.

British and Common Market financial ministers began meeting Thursday in Brussels but failed to agree on a way to negotiate the monetary confusion with the United States.

The dollar is expected to decline when the European exchange rates reopen Monday, but each country will arrange things in its own way.

France is expected to set one rate of exchange for commercial transactions and another for speculators. The German mark is expected to continue to float on the open market, and Britain plans to reopen with fixed rates but allowing a wider range of fluctuation.

Until Sunday, the United States had maintained the value of the dollar by agreeing to purchase back other nations' excess dollars with either gold or a relatively new form of international exchange called paper gold. Foreign nations, in turn, pegged their currencies to the value of gold, $35 an ounce.

But as dollars continued to flood foreign nations, the administration finally concluded it was unworkable to maintain the same artificial exchange rates.

Like any other commodity in surplus, the value of the dollar was becoming too suspect.

In the past, when nations devalued currency, they simply announced an outright devaluation and a new, specific, lower value.

But Nixon chose to let the dollar float—that is, seek its own value in the money marketplace.

Hoffa Loses Third Bid for Parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third time, former Teamsters leader James R. Hoffa has been denied parole from his prison sentences for jury tampering and mail fraud.

The U.S. Board of Parole Friday said Hoffa's case would be reconsidered in June of 1972, the date first set for a rehearing when Hoffa's second application was denied last March 31. He sought parole first in November of 1969.

Parole board chairman George J. Reed said Hoffa's entire record, including the fact he had resigned as Teamsters president and had paid $20,000 in fines resulting from his convictions, was reviewed by the eight-member board.

Reed said there were no witnesses besides Hoffa's son—Detroit Teamsters attorney James P. Hoffa who represented his father—and that no new evidence was introduced by the Department of Justice.

The hearing was a special one, granted last month at Hoffa's request. Only two board members need approve a special hearing request though five are needed to approve parole.

Hoffa has been in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary since March of 1967. He is serving a 13-year term.

The board had announced when it denied his parole in March, that the case would not be taken up again until June of 1972.

But in May the younger Hoffa held a series of meetings with Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson, head of the Justice Department's criminal division. Neither admitted the meetings took place.

Later, on the day after Hoffa disclosed he had resigned all union offices in June, his son asked the board for the special hearing. Finding there was "new and substantial evidence," the board granted the hearing.

Hospital Board Irked by Statement

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ronald A. May of Little Rock, a member of the State Hospital Board, has disputed a statement by board Chairman Lee Tucker of Benton that some board members had missed up to three straight meetings and there had been meetings where no quorum was present.

May said Thursday that the statement was "irresponsible and untrue." He said other board members had been "betrayed" by Tucker's remarks.

Another board member, Dr. John L. Ruff of Magnolia, also was critical of state Sen. Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton, who had been quoted as saying that failure of the board to obtain quorums was holding up construction programs.

Ruff said it seemed that Fletcher's statements were a "contrivance" to bring political pressure on Republican appointees of the board to resign.

Ruff, May and Dr. Omer E. Bradsher of Paragould were appointed by former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican.

Fletcher has frequently attacked appointees of Rockefeller.

Regarding Tucker's comments on board absenteeism, May said he had checked and found that the records for the last 4½ years did not reflect a meeting at which there was no quorum. He said he and Ruff also had not missed more than two consecutive meetings.

Industrial Development

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Herbert McAdams, chairman of the Department of Industrial Development, said Thursday that President Nixon's new economic measures should spur industrial development in Arkansas.

McAdams appraisal was supported by W. R. Strauss, director of the department's Finance and Research Division.

"Every point of Nixon's speech was aimed at stimulating industrial activity," Strauss said.

Buried Cable Problem to SW Bell

By TOM NEWBERRY
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)

With more than 9,000 miles of buried telephone cable in Arkansas, Southwestern Bell toll plant Supervisor Jim Coon has his hands full protecting the lines from people who would unknowingly sever those wires.

Coon says carelessness and just about any kind of earth-digging equipment are the biggest enemies.

"All our major long-distance cables in Arkansas are buried," Coon said, "and we now place more than 80 per cent of residential cable beneath the ground."

He said underground cables may contain from 12 to 2,700 pairs of tiny wires. The wires are enclosed in a tough, plastic tube.

According to Coon, the cables are buried 24 to 40 inches below the surface of the ground in residential areas, and approximately 40 inches underground in other places, although some are at depths of five to six feet.

Two main reasons for burying the lines rather than suspending them from the more conventional poles are economy and better service, Coon said. "We're trying to bury all we can."

Coon explained that the underground system gives better service because of the lack of susceptibility to storm or ice damage. However, in some areas where the soil is very rocky, new lines are still strung on poles, which is the more expensive method.

Coon said most cables are cut by contractors and farmers using earth-digging equipment who "don't check where cables are." However, Coon emphasized that all cable routes are clearly marked with yellow warning signs.

"People planning to dig near one of these routes should take just a couple of minutes to call the phone company," he said. "We will send someone to the digging site or advise them of the exact location of the cable." He said there is no charge for this service.

When the cables are cut, the nearest Bell crew is sent to the scene to find the cut ends and splice in a new section. Coon said as many as 15 men are sometimes required to repair a cut in a large cable.

Often those responsible for a cut cable are billed for expenses incurred in the repair, which may range from $100 to $3,000, he said. Coon estimated the time necessary for putting a severed cable back into operation at two to 10 hours.

Coon said all cables are air pressurized to keep out moisture, and also a pressure alarm is attached. The alarm sounds if the cable is nicked or cut, allowing the air to escape.

"Sometimes the alarm is sounded and a crew repairs the cut in the cable housing before actual telephone service is ever interrupted," he said.

Coon said the company has a continuous program under way to help reduce instances of cut cables, including contacts by Bell personnel and advertising in trade publications read by contractors and farmers.

He said more cables are damaged during summer months because more earth-moving work is done at that time.

Governor of Texas Faces Court Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coming down hard on the first real opposition to its wage-price-rent freeze, the Nixon administration is taking Texas officials to court to halt a scheduled pay hike for state employees.

The action against Texas Gov. Preston Smith's defiance of the 90-day freeze was ordered Friday by the Cost of Living Council, headed by Smith's predecessor in the Austin statehouse, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Justice Department officials said a suit naming Smith and other state officials would be filed in U.S. District Court in Austin next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Smith's office said the governor would fly to Washington today "to attend to a little business," but a spokesman added that Smith would not meet with anyone in the administration.

Apparently setting the pattern for response to future violations, the government will seek a civil injunction barring the raises rather than criminal penalties for disobedience of the executive order imposing the freeze.

Although demonstrating a determination to make Nixon's order stick, the need to resort to the court in Texas underscores a potential weakness in the administration's supposition of voluntary compliance with the freeze.

With AFL-CIO President George Meany looking over its shoulder, the administration announced its intention without giving Smith the time to back down gracefully.

The administration also faces challenges to the wage ceiling from nationwide teachers' organizations and from state officials in Louisiana, who say teachers there will get their scheduled salary increases this fall despite the freeze.

Marines and Navy Enlist Very Well

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy enlistment and re-enlistment percentages increased in the first year under tradition-shattering Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., but the "no-nonsense" Marines did about as well.

The results surprised some who had expected the Navy, with its relaxed rules on hair, dress and lifestyle, to far outstrip its tough brother-service in attracting and holding men.

Although leaders of both services have denied any feud, there has been an unspoken rivalry reflecting diametrically opposite philosophies.

After Zumwalt became chief of naval operations on July 1, 1970, he pledged himself "to improving the quality of Navy life in all respects and restoring the run and zest of going to sea."

But Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, Marine Corps commandant, has declared: "We're continuing to train Marines the way we've always trained them. No compromises, no shortcuts...."

Now, figures compiled for The Associated Press show the Navy reached 102.2 per cent of its goal for enlisting new sailors in the 1971 fiscal year ended June 30, Zumwalt's first year as CNO. It signed up 75,113.

The previous year, the Navy hit 101.8 per cent of its goal, enlisting 96,251 men for what was then a bigger Navy. The enlistment gain from the "old Navy" to the "new Navy" eras thus was only four-tenths of 1 per cent.

Re-enlistment of career Marines also gained, from 78 per cent in fiscal 1970 to 82.9 per cent in fiscal 1971.

Navy strength is at 622,000; the Marines at 212,000.

*Even a
Slum

But people live here . . .

The big German Shepherd growls and strains at his leash at the back door of the apartment house—protection for what is hardly worth protecting. The Brownsville section of Brooklyn, barely 45 minutes from Broadway, is the ugly shadow of a big city. Once a Jewish ghetto, it is now a black and Puerto Rican ghetto. Its buildings, some dating from the late 1800s, have served their purpose, and now serve only the poor.

Two young black boys coming home early from school give the fist-clenched Black Power salute in front of the devastated buildings that are symbols of how meager that power is. The firmly-built church, formerly a Jewish temple, now houses a besieged church group trying to make a life for black youngsters. The wrought-iron Star of David stares out helplessly at the scene of former glory. And all around the bulldozers churn away at the brick and the broken glass of the slum.

There is a start of something better. There are a few renovated buildings. There is a model cities program. The work is slow. Brownsville may have to die before it can be made whole again.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW photographs by Jerry Mosey.

It is ugly to see a city die.

The homes are razed, but the streetsweeper follows its route.

Kroger Pledges Cooperation With 'Freeze'

Kroger Food Stores today pledged its cooperation in every way toward meeting President Nixon's goal of halting inflation.

Stewart Long, Vice President of the retail food firm's Arkansas Division, said, "Inflation is the biggest problem facing our nation today. It has handicapped customers and businesses alike. Kroger and other food stores have been caught between drastically rising costs of doing business and our desire to hold prices as low as possible for shoppers."

Mr. Long said the company has taken steps to comply fully with the President's executive order of Sunday.

He noted that customers have expressed curiosity about two areas—will there still be weekly advertised specials. "The answer is yes. Each week we will offer items at low special prices, just as we have in the past. Under no circumstances will any price be higher than established under the terms of the President's executive order."

—Are all items in the store included in the freeze. "The only items not included in the price freeze are raw agricultural products, such as eggs or fresh fruits and vegetables. These items will rise and fall in price on a supply - and - demand or seasonal basis, as they have in the past," Mr. Long added. "I can assure you that Kroger will continue to utilize all our resources to offer shoppers the benefit of the best values available."

Seek Retrial of Conviction 103 Yrs. Ago

By TAD BARTIMUS

Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Descendants of the doctor who set John Wilkes Booth's broken leg hours after Booth assassinated Abraham Lincoln want a new trial on Dr. Samuel Mudd's conspiracy conviction 106 years ago.

The defendant died in 1883. John Mudd, a Miami attorney and great grandson of Dr. Mudd, said Wednesday he had asked President Nixon to review the evidence which led to his forebear's conviction by a military court as an accessory after the fact in the assassination plot.

The Miami man said the military tribunal which on June 30, 1865, sentenced Dr. Mudd to life in prison should never have had jurisdiction in the case. "So far as we know," John Mudd said, "it was the only time that civilians were tried by a military court. My great-grandfather wasn't allowed to testify in his own defense nor was there any cross-examination."

Booth appeared on horseback at Dr. Mudd's farmhouse shortly after 1 a.m. Saturday, April 15, 1865. Mudd treated him and sent him on his way before dawn. He later said he was unaware that Lincoln had been shot at Ford's Theater in nearby Washington and that Booth had broken his leg as he leaped from the president's box to the stage in his getaway.

Mudd said he set Booth's leg as a humanitarian act he would perform for anyone and that he was not a member of any conspiracy. Mudd was imprisoned at Ft. Jefferson, an isolated fortress in the Dry Tortugas Islands. After a yellow fever epidemic in 1869, he received a pardon from President Andrew Johnson for his efforts to save fellow prisoners and guards.

After his release, Dr. Mudd returned to Maryland and continued to seek a new trial on grounds the Army had no authority to try him. Shortly before his death in 1883 the Supreme Court turned down a petition to hear his case.

In the 1920s Dr. Richard Mudd of Saginaw, Mich., undertook study of the assassination to determine his grandfather's role.

"Despite the fact of his innocence, I'm afraid we're fighting a losing battle with this petition for a new trial for a man who's been dead almost a century," the 71-year-old Michigan doctor said.

LEGAL NOTICE

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY, ARKANSAS

IN THE MATTER OF THE PROPOSED ANNEXATION OF CERTAIN LANDS TO THE CITY OF HOPE, ARKANSAS.

Furnishing the Home on Wheels

By AILEEN SNODDY

Mobile homes prove a pleasant way to survive this era of expensive, but often small living quarters. In fact, 6½-million people call them home with the largest group—49 per cent—under 35 years old.

Like many in that age bracket, events of the '30s are familiar through nostalgia columns, books and films. Thus comparing the early "trailers" with today's 12-foot wide, 60-to-70-foot long mobile homes is as incongruous as relating the World War II Stearman to the 747. In the case of the homes-on-wheels the common denominator is wheels, now rarely used once the unit is parked.

To project the decorative possibilities of '71 mobile homes a furniture company had a unit specially designed from the outside in. The five-room unit that grew dramatically from the drawing board can retail for about $12,500 new and completely furnished or $7,000 to $9,000 used, but with new furnishings. Average retail for a 12-foot wide, 60-70-foot furnished home is $6,110. Three firms involved in the upgrading of mobile homes design were Kemp Furniture Industries, Masonite Corp. and Monarch Industries (mobile home builders).

The basic ploy was to follow the three-C rule to fit a busy and diversified life-style. In this, furniture must be compact, convenient and comfortable. Paneled inside and outside the model unit has such features as a fireplace in the living room, campaign-style cubes for storage, cocktail table top space in the living room-dining area. Three soft-tufted couches contrast with the cubes' sharp angles.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

IS WAR FOR ECOLOGY SLOWING DOWN?

Dear Helen:
Last winter there was a big ecology push in our town. We had can, bottle, and paper collections, clean-up drives, pollution inspection.

But I haven't heard much about it lately. And I still see factory chimneys belching smoke. Our river still smells. The air (so called) burns our eyes.

Are the American people sinking back to "don't careness"? I've heard that industries, rather than convert to cleaner methods, pay big fines for their pollution. After all, handing the government a daily "pay-off" is cheaper than putting in new machinery, and why should the government holler when it's money in their pocket?

As for bringing out cars that don't use polluting gas and oil—it would be the end of many multi-million dollar businesses, if the internal combustion engine were replaced.

The hard facts are that anti-pollution means fewer profits. It also means going to a lot of re-using, cleaning up after ourselves—and, most of all, making a lot of noise so that the big guys will clean up, too.

There ARE ways to purify water, fight smog, turn garbage into landfills instead of ocean sewage. But if we drag our feet, we can't expect the money men to do it out of altruism.

If we want our children to live without gas masks and THEIR children to live at all, we'd better get on our horses again and start screaming for ecology NOW. So I'm—SCREAMING

Dear Screaming:
So am I! Let's don't anyone stop. —H.

Dear Helen:
I got in trouble for stealing and shoplifting. Well, I quit. I wouldn't steal now, even if I knew I'd never get caught.

But our neighbor heard about this. The other day I was at her house. Now she's accusing me of lifting a $10.00 bill that she says was on the sideboard.

Other kids were there too, but Fireplace, campaign chest cubes for cocktail table storage, leather 'n' brass chest and tufted sofas define a living room area in a model mobile home. Five-room home could sell for about $12,500 completely furnished in this style. (Kemp Furniture) playroom departs from modern with French provincial chests topped with stacking hutches in ivory and gold.

An adult den-hobby room has a valet chest for convenient corner storage. Indian design rug, oak-finish furniture and a simulated pine beamed ceiling. How many mobile homes does one see with beamed ceilings?

Such stabs at decorating mobile homes with a flair show it can be done within a budget and no one needs live in a unit with cheap vinyl-covered furniture squared off around the walls.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Versatility for mobile home interiors starts with simulated pine beamed ceilings, colorful striped fabric for window shades and upholstery and a valet chest for "his" working corner. "Her" corner has single pedestal desk and bachelor chest for storage of sewing needs and clothing. Room is one of five in model mobile home. (Kemp Furniture)

Fashion and Beauty

CLEANING OLD GOLD

Been married too long? If your wedding band has lost the sparkle and shine it had a few years back, here's a helpful hint. A good way to clean gold rings, earrings and bracelets is by soaking them in ammonia and then brushing the dirt away with an old toothbrush.

NATURAL EYES

To avoid an artificial penciled look for the eyebrows, follow the natural contours of your brow, brush or pencil in with gentle strokes and use two shades, such as medium and dark brown, for a more natural effect.

BARGAINS???

This is the season of bargain hunter's delight. Most stores have end-of-summer sales in which the merchandise is greatly reduced. But make sure you're really getting a good buy. Check the product for stains and damages. Don't ignore the possibility of style changes, particularly with shoes and dresses. And if your weight fluctuates greatly, think twice before buying something for next year.

SUMMER HOSE

"Barefoot hosiery" is a must for many summer outfits. When buying panty hose, be sure it's labeled sheer from waist to toes especially for hot pants, sandals or sling-back shoes.

WRINKLE-FREE

Living out of a suitcase? For the quickest way to eliminate those nasty little wrinkles, hang the garment in the bathroom while you take your hot shower. The steam will help get the wrinkles out and give the dress a freshly cleaned look.

FALSE LASHES

False eyelashes can be worn during the day, even to the office, if they are not too overpowering or heavy. Many firms manufacture lashes designed for daytime wear. Lashes may be longer and more dramatic for the evenings.

SMOOTHER FACE

A good way to help settle make-up and avoid a cakey look is to pat a cloth wet with cold water over the face. The cold water removes the excess make-up and gives the face a sheer smooth look.

TENDER SKIN

For those with sensitive skin be sure to pick up on those hypo-allergenic skin products which are on the market.

MORE ON HOSE

Be careful with dark or brightly colored stockings during the summer months. They tend to draw the attention away from the clothes. Generally, it is better to stick with the flesh, tan or pastel colors with the light-colored outfits. Dark stockings with light-colored shoes tend to give an unbalanced look.

SHAPELY HINTS

Since styles seem to be aiming at the women not-so-well-endowed, the voluptuous women of the world have encountered difficulties. If you want to de-emphasize magnitudinous proportions, follow these don'ts. Avoid white tops that make you appear bigger. Stay away from jackets or shirts with pockets over the bust. Empire dresses are not designed for big-busted women. Never wear a size bigger in order to hide your bust. It does quite the opposite. Turtle-necks give you a stuffed look. A round or moderate V-neckline is much more attractive. Avoid ruffles, large prints and, of course, horizontal stripes.

There is a new church in the new Montgomery County, President Salvador Allende said. Rev. It was a church in the new Montgomery County, said the Jeremy Flint undoubtedly concocted today's hand for his book, "Tiger Bridge." You are tiger South. After tiger West opens three diamonds, his partner raises him to four. You consider all sorts of bids and eventually elect to try a conservative five clubs. Much to your surprise, you get doubled at this contract.

West opens the king of diamonds and you study awhile. The simple play is to win in dummy and take a heart finesse, but the double has told you West holds all four missing clubs. The best you can do with that line of play is to take 10 tricks.

Can you make 11?

It looks as if you can but you must play most unusually. You let West hold the trick. He continues diamonds, which is as good as anything else, and you play low from dummy and ruff in your hand.

Then you cash your three high trumps, ace-king of spades and ace of hearts and throw West in with his last trump.

West started with 10 cards in the minors. He followed to two spades, so his last heart has gone away and he must put you in dummy for the rest of the tricks.

Neat, but not quite correct. West is also a tiger. He dropped the six, 10 and jack of clubs on the ace, king and queen and you can't throw him in, since he holds the deuce.

He bids five clubs; you bid five hearts and he bids six diamonds. What do you do now?

Batman, Robin Sue Network

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Batman and Robin of television have filed a $6 million lawsuit charging they were never paid their share of profits from items merchandized in connection with the series.

Adam West, who played Batman, and Burt Ward, who was his sidekick, filed suit in Superior Court this week against Greenway Productions, 20th Century-Fox and the American Broadcasting Co.

The suit asks for $2 million in compensation and $4 million in punitive damages. The pair contend they never received the amount they were entitled to under contract from $300 million worth of Batman toys, records, sweaters and games sold throughout the world.

Blue Loses Heartbreaker to Boston

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oakland A's lose once in a while, but hardly ever when Vida Blue pitches.

It was one of those once-in-a-blue-moon times Friday night. "The game is history, there'll be lots more," said the star southpaw after losing only his fifth game of the year—a 1-4 heart-breaker to the Boston Red Sox.

The loss can be excusable for Blue, who has never been defeated more than once a month this year as he stormed upon the scene from a baseball nobody.

In between his 22 victories, Blue lost 8-0 to Washington on April 5; 4-3 to Boston May 28; 5-3 to Minnesota on June 29 and 4-1 to Cleveland July 30 before Friday.

The Red Sox thus are the only ones to beat him more than once but Blue doesn't think it's any special jinx.

In Friday night's other American League games, the California Angels stopped the New York Yankees 6-0; the Detroit Tigers nudged the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2; the Chicago White Sox bombed the Cleveland Indians 9-1; the Minnesota Twins topped the Baltimore Orioles 8-5 and the Washington Senators took a doubleheader from the Kansas City Royals, 6-3 and 8-2.

National League scores: Cincinnati 6, Pittsburgh 0; Montreal 4, San Francisco 1; Los Angeles 9, Philadelphia 5; Atlanta 6, St. Louis 5 in 11 innings; San Diego 3, New York 2 and Chicago took a twin bill from Houston 3-2 and 5-4.

Blue allowed only two hits before giving up a leadoff single to Billy Conigliaro in the eighth. Then the roof fell in as Duane Josephson sacrificed and reached first base on an error. Pitcher Gary Peters then sacrificed both runners along and Doug Griffin singled in the winning run.

"It's just one of those things," said Oakland manager Dick Williams. "We didn't get him any runs. He pitched well, but Peters pitched better."

Peters outduelled the 22-year-old sensation with a six-hitter. But Blue continued to win big crowd over, drawing 31,494 into the Oakland Coliseum.

Jim Spencer slugged a three-run homer and Rudy May pitched a five-hitter, leading California over New York. May was helped out by four double plays and the Yankees contributed to their own downfall with three errors.

Dick McAuliffe broke up Bill Parson's no-hit bid with a lead-off single in the seventh inning and Al Kaline crashed a three-run homer later in the inning for Detroit's winning margin over Milwaukee.

Parsons had retired the first 13 batters before hitting Bill Freehan with a pitch in the fifth. After Freehan was erased on a double play, the right-hander had faced the minimum 18 batters before giving up singles to McAuliffe and Jim Northrup and Kaline's 362nd career blast that moved him past Joe DiMaggio into 18th place on the all-time home run list.

Jay Johnstone ripped a pair of home runs, Bill Melton delivered a two-run shot and Mike Andrews slammed a bases-empty homer in Chicago's triumph over Cleveland. Chicago's Tom Bradley scattered six hits before Vada Pinson tagged him for a homer in the

Baseball in Need of a Pennant Race

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Pssst... pssst. Over here. Over here in the National League East. Keep it under your hat but there's liable to be a pennant race yet.

With Oakland and Baltimore making the American League division chases almost academic and San Francisco threatening to do the same in the National League West, baseball is in desperate need of a race and the Pittsburgh Pirates may just oblige.

The Pirates ran into Ross Grimsley Friday night and the Cincinnati southpaw tamed them 6-0. Combined with Chicago's 3-2 and 5-4 doubleheader sweep against Houston, it shrank Pittsburgh's NL East edge to 4½ games.

Elsewhere in the NL Friday, Montreal trimmed San Francisco 4-1, San Diego shaded New York 3-2, Atlanta edged St. Louis 6-5 in 12 innings and Los Angeles rapped Philadelphia 9-5.

In the American League, Detroit edged Milwaukee 3-2, Chicago whipped Cleveland 9-1, Minnesota topped Baltimore 8-5, Washington swept a doubleheader from Kansas City 6-3 and 8-2 California rapped New York 6-0 and Boston blanked Oakland 1-0.

The Pirates have spent two months in first place but their record lately hasn't exactly frightened off challengers. For example, of the last 31 games—one month's worth of first place—the Pirates' log has read 11-20 and that's hardly scary for the teams behind them.

Grimsley permitted just four hits Friday night and the Reds used two-run homers by Tony Perez and Lee May to make his task easy. The victory gave the rookie an 8-5 record and left the Pirates quite impressed.

Back there, the Cubs are making things interesting.

Ferguson Jenkins reached 20 victories for the fifth successive season in the opener of the doubleheader with Johnny Callison slugging a three-run homer for the Cubs. Jenkins was nipped for two runs in the first inning, but allowed Houston only six hits after that, reaching 20 victories earlier than he ever has before. No pitcher has strung five straight 20-win seasons since Warren Spahn did it from 1956-60.

Cancer Costs Vikings a Key Player

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Vellone has met some tough opponents in his five seasons as a starting guard on the Minnesota Vikings' fine offensive line—but one of the defensive tackles he battled is more of a threat than the opponent he now faces.

Vellone, 27, won't be doing his battling on the football field, at least not this year. Vellone has Hodgkin's disease, a form of cancer, and underwent surgery Wednesday for removal of his spleen.

Though ailing physically, Vellone's spirit has not been dampened. "I'm going to lick it," he vowed.

"It is cancer in a form, and it scares you, no question," the former USC griddle said. But you've got to look at it optimistically... It has one of the highest cure rates of any form of cancer.

"It's just like a football game," the 6-foot-2½, 250-pounder added. "You got to go on, even if you have made a mistake. You can't look back. You have got to go on."

The first trace of Vellone's ailment came when he reported to the Vikings' camp July 20. Something turned up in his pre-season physical examination which prompted doctors to perform further tests last week in St. Paul. That was when it was diagnosed as Hodgkin's disease.

Fullback Jim Grabowski of Green Bay, hampered the past two seasons by injuries, was placed on waivers Wednesday by Coach Dan Devine.

Grabowski, a five-year veteran from Illinois where he broke all of Red Grange's rushing records, was one-half of the Packers' "gold-dust twins." He and Donny Anderson reportedly received better than $1 million to sign with the Packers in 1966 during the bonus war between the AFL and NFL.

Happier at 0-1? Was Vida Blue

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

OAKLAND, Calif. (NEA)—The afternoon Vida Blue won his 20th game of the season for the Oakland Athletics, he took three Alka Seltzers to settle his stomach. That was during the game, a perilous 1-0 shutout of the Chicago White Sox.

It showed how much the pressure of being the most famous pitcher in baseball had gotten to the 22-year-old lefthander.

A year ago at this time he was still enjoying the sights and summer humidity of Des Moines, Iowa. These days, he stays in better hotels, has a fancier pad, travels first class and has that powder blue Caddy with which Charles Oscar Finley endowed him. He gets congratulatory messages calling him The Million-Dollar Baby.

But is Vida Baby happy? Not on your bippy.

"No," he said emphatically, encasing his precious left elbow in a bucket of ice after still another afternoon's toil for the A's. "I'm not happy. I'll be happy when the season's over."

Not happy? When he reached that 20-game goal, to which all men who throw baseballs aspire for a lifetime, in early August of his first full season in the majors? When happiness should have glistened all over his handsome brown face?

"Things are not going right for me," he grumped.

By mortal measure, Vida Blue should be on a high no drug could produce, in the zenith of young adulthood. But he won't even say he's had a good year.

"I've had a decent year," he says. "I've lost four ball games. If I'd lost none, I'd have a good year."

Read cold, that's got to sound like a put-on. But the humor has gone out of Vida in his public posture. He is suffering from a psychosis that was latterly diagnosed as rufous asinus when it afflicted one Roger Maris in the course of hitting 61 home runs just a decade ago.

Its symptoms are shortness of speech, a ducking of the head when asked a penetrating question and a nervous urge to get lost. It can be brought on by an innocuous remark. Like someone noted that when he was going for win No. 20, he carried two dimes around with him. Now that the next decimal, or 30, is attainable, is he going to carry three dimes?

"There you go," he blurted, "making bleep-bleep pressure."

He punctuated the answer by pounding the table, on which the ice bucket rested, with his right hand, the one he can afford to hurt.

It was noted that since Vida has pitched more than 200 innings this year and his arm is a little tired, his pitches have started to rise and come within the hitting range of those who favor high balls. A baseball maxim is that the good pitchers always keep it down around the knees.

His right hand pounded the table again (a physical manifestation of his neurosis).

"I'm always throwing some bleep in somebody's eye," he said, "and they hit it nine miles."

Vida admitted that his arm feels stiff from the extended use and that he has trouble getting it limber even on the day he pitches. "At the age of 22," he said, almost letting loose a sigh, "I have to get the rubdown twice. I used to go into the trainer's room once. Now I have to sneak in there one more time."

But with all the travail and the anxiety of living up to the demands of being a public person, he is still an exciting figure who triples the attendance figures on the days he pitches, who runs exuberantly to and from the pitcher's mound between innings, who unfurls his delivery with the kinetic snap of a bullwhip.

And his teammates felt that being relieved of the tension which preceded winning his 20th game will make Vida a more relaxed pitcher. "He'll roll from now on," predicted Curt Blefary.

"The kid's had to put up with a lot," said Mike Epstein.

"You caught me in a horse bleep mood," said Vida to a man come out to do a national magazine cover story. "If you'd come here when I was 0-and-1 maybe we could have gone to the Playboy Club—you know, had some fun."

Duke University said Wednesday the Blue Devil football team will play Penn State in its 1977 through 1980 seasons.

The series will be the first for the two schools, which have never played each other in football.

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Green Bay Packers quarterback Bart Starr has left the Mayo Clinic for his home in Wisconsin to recuperate from surgery to repair a bleeding artery. He was released Wednesday after a second operation on his right shoulder.

The bleeding apparently resulted from a July 28 operation intended to repair a bicep tendon, an injury which could keep him out of the entire 1971 National Football League season.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A pair of University of Texas teammates, Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite, shared the favorite's role today as a field of 200 began play in the 15th annual Eastern Amateur golf Tournament.

Pete Beathard, the former Southern California star quarterback, threw only 17 passes for the St. Louis Cardinals during the 1970 National Football League season. Chances are he will throw more than 17 tonight when the Cardinals meet the Washington Redskins in an exhibition game at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Bob Holway, the Cards' new coach, plans to let Beathard play the entire game, just as he permitted Jim Hart, last season's first-stringer, to go the distance in the team's 16-14 victory over Houston last week in St. Louis' preseason opener.

Ironically, Beathard's best game last season was against Washington. He replaced the injured Hart in the second quarter with St. Louis trailing 10-0 and sparked the Cards to a 27-17 triumph on Sept. 20. He completed six of 13 passes for 56 yards and one touchdown, a six-yarder to Johnny Roland.

Beathard, who was obtained before the 1970 season by St. Louis in a four-player trade with Houston, appeared in only two other Cardinal games, hitting on one of two aerials against the Oilers and missing two attempts against Boston.

Otherwise, he sat and watched Hart direct the club. And after the season, he asked to be traded again. The Cards didn't deal him, however, and tonight he will try and outdo Hart, who connected on 16 of 31 passes for 234 yards last week against Houston.

The game will be a preview of the season's opener between the Cards and Redskins on Sept. 12 and marks the home debut of Washington Coach

George Allen. The Redskins are 1-1 in exhibition play. They again will be without their two leading ground gainers, Larry Brown and Charley Harraway, out with injuries.

There will be one exhibition this afternoon, Oakland (1-1) against Los Angeles (2-1) at Berkeley, Calif. Five other preseason contests are scheduled tonight—Chicago (1-1) at Minnesota (2-0), Atlanta (0-1) against Denver (0-1) at Memphis, Tenn., Kansas City (2-0) at New Orleans (0-2), Philadelphia (2-0) at Houston (1-2), and Miami (0-1-1) against Green Bay (0-2) at Milwaukee.

Sunday, four afternoon games are on the slate, with New England (1-1) at Buffalo (1-1), the New York Giants (0-2) against the New York Jets (0-2) at New Haven, Conn., Baltimore (2-1) against Detroit (1-1) at Ann Arbor, Mich., and San Diego (1-1) at San Francisco (1-0-1).

Monday night, Pittsburgh (1-0) plays at Cincinnati (2-0).

The NFL exhibition weekend began Friday night, with Dallas edging Cleveland 16-15 on Mike Clark's third field goal, a 26-yarder with 23 seconds remaining. Cleveland's Don Crockcroft booted two field goals, but he missed a decisive conversion after the Browns' only touchdown, a 56-yard run with a recovered fumble by Bob Briggs.

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

National Conference: Eastern Division DALLAS COWBOYS

PROSPECTUS—Cowboys really rate more respect for positive achievements, like five straight division crowns and makings for a sixth. When a Duane Thomas bleats unhappily they can't win without him, there's a Calvin Hill chomping for action. Only club this deep could have won with its kind of quarterbacking, or lack of same. Except for solving QB situation, Coach Tom Landry has even stronger squad than '70.

Offense — PASSING—His sore arm appears recovered but Craig Morton still is suffering from leadership shakes. Plus for him is that Roger Staubach may never be ready to read defenses or set up in pocket. Rating—C.

Running—Duane Thomas talked himself out of Dallas and he'll soon be forgotten if Carl Garrett—coming from New England—returns to '69 form (AFL Rookie of Year, 5.05 yards per carry). Don't overlook Calvin Hill, either, and Walt Garrison at fullback. In pinch, Danny Reeves can always shuck coaching duties to help out. Rating—B+.

RECEIVING—Breathless in prospects. Seldom have pair like Bobby Hayes, Lance Alworth ever worked on wings together. Even improved catching at tight end by getting Billy Truax from Rams. With depth from Mike Ditka inside, Reggie Rucker outside. Rating—A.

LINE—No change in prospect. Even were able to deal off Tony Liscio, who was displaced as long-time regular last year. Time Rayfield Wright got some of all-star credit that's been going to Ralph Neely, his tackle mate. John Noland continues top drawer at pulling out to block. Blaine Nye was unhappy temporarily; now has the dough to stay on at right guard. Dave Manders reclaimed center post last year. Rating—B+.

DEFENSE—Same unit operating up front on this platoon, too. Incomparable Bob Lilly at tackle is pace-maker. All teams still double and triple team him, then have to ward off Jethro Pugh. Ends George Andrie, Larry Cole more steady than spectacular. Drafted Bubba Smith's little brother Tody No. 1 for future, but Tody's got to show he wants to play. Rating—A-.

LINEBACKING—Chuck Howley contemplated retirement—maybe for five seconds. Even at 35, he hasn't slowed down as left side protector. Teams with Lee Roy Jordan, Dave Edwards as one of most versatile units in game, perfectly geared to Landry concept of structured defense. Couple of good kids, Tom Stincic and D. D. Lewis, wouldn't disgrace them. Rating—B+.

SECONDARY—Picked up greatly with acquisition of Herb Adderley at left corner, switching Cornell Green to safety and keeping all-pro Mel Renfro at right corner. Only open spot is free safety, where Cliff Harris, Charlie Waters took turns in '70 and will battle again. Lots of savvy back there with the three all-pro vets. Rating—A-.

KICKING—Not the best, with Mike Clark placekicking. Ron Widby punting; and not the worst. They'll do until better comes along. Rating—B.

Prediction

Some day they'll explode myth about losing big one. First in East.
